

2018 SRA Biennial Meeting

April 12-14, 2018

Minneapolis, MN

Invited Program Roundtable

Considering the Future of Developmental Science

Moderators: Jasna Jovanovic, California Polytechnic State University
Mitchell J. Prinstein, UNC-Chapel Hill

Panelists: B. Bradford Brown, University of Wisconsin
Noel Card, University of Connecticut
Deinera Exner-Cortens, University of Calgary
Reed Larson, University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign
Richard M. Lee, University of Minnesota - Twin Cities
Eva S. Lefkowitz, University of Connecticut
Adriana Manago, University of California, Santa Cruz
Vonnie McLoyd, University of Michigan
Marcela Raffaelli, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign
Amanda Rose, University of Missouri
Stephen Russell, University of Texas at Austin
John Schulenberg, University of Michigan
Russell B. Toomey, University of Arizona

Integrative Statement. Developmental science is changing. Shifting funding priorities, emerging transdisciplinary innovations, and exciting new methodological tools offer new opportunities for developmental scientists. In addition, a changing world climate, and evolving influences on adolescents' lives have changed the questions researchers are asking. This esteemed panel of senior, mid-career, and junior investigators will discuss the future of developmental science and identify priorities for investigations interested in adolescence.